The administration, which is pushing hard for the bill, won a preliminary skirmish Monday when the House voted 184-120 to formally take up the legislation. Only two Republicans voted with the majority.

An Atlas rocket blazed away from Cape Kennedy at 11:15 a.m. (EDT) to propel the Agena into space. But eight minutes after, mission director William C.

Schneider reported: "We have lost the Agena bird. We don't know exactly what happened to it. The Gem-

For Stafford, it was the second similar disappointment. He and Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. were in the Gemini 6 spacecraft last Oct. 25 and shad their mission postponed when their Agena target satellite exploded six minutes after liftoff.

Wasting State Aid

Gov. George Romney's Upper Peninsula Conference on Local Government in Marquette last week brought to the surface several problems. Questions were raised on subjects ranging from the walleye season to crime and punishment.

Although the conference extended over three hours, there still was not time enough for more than a superficial examination of most of the issues broached.

The solution to one of the issues raised, however: was so obvious that lack of action is a strong indictment of our State Government. The matter was introduced by a Houghton County resident who inquired regarding the status of the Copper Country Sanitarium.

Gov. Romney explained that as long as three years ago the State had recommended the abandonment of this facility. The state has no further use for the building, and it should be closed as a State institution. he said. In fact, Gov. Romney added, the State is willing to give the building to Houghton County, which needs additional space for the care of patients. Yet, three years later, the Copper Country Sanitarium still is in operation. Why?

The Governor blamed "a political situation" for keeping the facility operative. The "san" has a payroll of 60 employes, and the Copper Country wants to keep these jobs. Gov. Romney explained that the state has jobs now for all of these employes in other parts of Michigan.

But this would mean, of course, that these 60 people would be transferred and thus lost to the Copper Country. So a facility that is superfluous nevertheless remains in operation at considerable cost to taxpayers because of political intervention against the best interests of government.

Nor is this an isolated case. Several years ago when the Michigan Department of Conservation sought to close a surplus fish hatchery in the northern Lower Peninsula, local residents united in protest to delay the phasing out of this installation—again at the expense of the taxpavers of their state.

The total in wasted tax monies from such state compromises must be big.

Investor's guide! A Cadillac remains unmistakably a Cadillac regardless of year. New or previously-owned, its impressive size, its remarkable beauty and its continuity of styling have all contributed to Cadillac's reputation as the finest of all luxury car investments.

Every day, more and more wise ear buyers are discovering that they can get more performance, luxury, distinction and pride of ownership in a previously-owned Cadillac than in many new cars of lesser stature. For example, Cadillac engineering has always been so advanced that many features of Cadillacs several years old are just now finding their way into new cars of other makes. And Cadillac has for years provided as standard equipment automatic transmission, power steering.

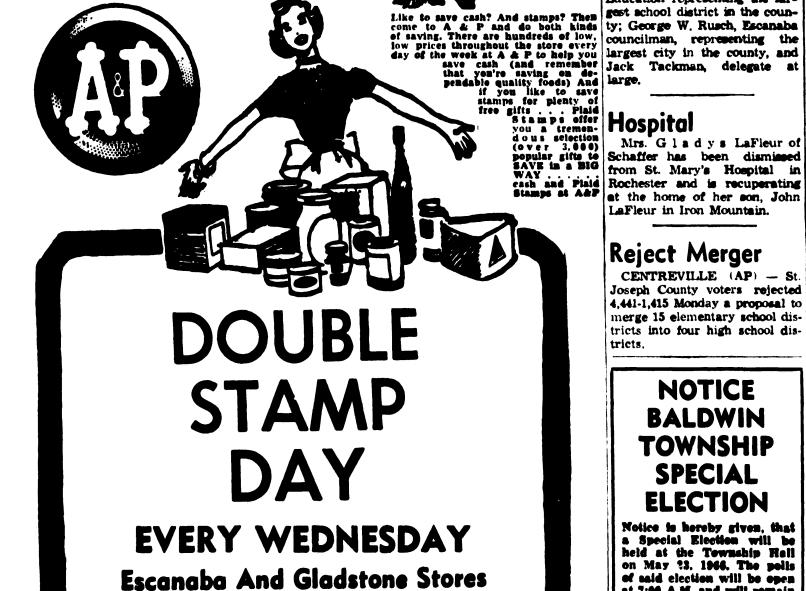

power brakes, power windows and power seats on most models, automatic cornering lights and many other conveniences that even now cost extra on most new cars. Consider, too, the extra reassurance of motoring in an automobile of Cadillac's impressive size and statura. Before you buy your next car, be sure to look for your authorized Cadillac dealer's used car sign. It is the best possible landmark for a wide, attractively priced selection of well cared for, previously-owned Cadillac ears.

Gerald Wigger Lands 22-Pound Northern

Gerald Wigger, 1115 Minneaots Ave., thought he had a mag and came up instead with a 22-pound northern pike. Wigger was fishing rainbow trout Saturday at the mouth of the Laughing Whitefish which empties into Lake Superior. He was accompanied by Justin Swee, 1103 Michigan Ave. "I thought we were hooked on the bottom," Wigger said. "We started maneuvering the boat to the place we were hooked."

Wigger said the 45-inch northern eventually came to the top of the water and after a half-hour battle, Swee finally boated the fish with a net.

"It's a good thing we got him in the boat." Wigger continued. "As soon as he got the net over the side, the fish went right through the net."

Wigger said he wasn't sure the northern was legal, but after checking state fishing regulations found that northern taken from trout waters may be kept. Regular opening for the northern pike season is May 21.

like a good place to start a town on the banks of the White River," Daniel Weaver told his son-in-law, Thaddeus Waters. "I have $800 in the bureau drawer and I'm out of debt. I think we could make a good strike."

It was the spring of 1866 when the two land speculators from Fremont founded this Western Michigan town. Now, 100 years later, the more than 800 residents of Hesperia are busy digging up old lore and reconstructing the history of their village. The town will observe its cenennial July 14-16.

Weaver, after arranging for construction of a saw mill and store, laid out the town in the fall of 1866.

The first name given the community was New Ocea, combining the names of Oceana and Newaygo counties. The city still is split down its main street by county boundary lines.

Miss Mary Cook, whose father erected the first saw mill, is credited with changing the vilage name from New Ocea to Hesperia in 1867. Mrs. Marilla Camp, however, writing at the age of 92 said, "the village schoolmaster, as the most educated among us," named Hes-
